

Mosquito Night

A new performance piece
by Christine Watkins
featuring The Voice Squad

The Courtyard Hereford

7th, 8th, 9th February at 7.45pm in the Studio

Tickets £7 Box Office 0870 1122330

Anopheles stephensi in flight Hugh Sturrock/Wellcome Images

On August 20th 1897 poet-scientist Ronald Ross made a crucial discovery, proving once and for all that mosquitoes are responsible for spreading malaria. He thought he'd solved the problem; to celebrate he named the day Mosquito Day. But then came Mosquito Night...

O DEATH WHERE

Writer Christine Watkins and biologist Dr Angela Priestman have created a darkly humorous performed lecture exploring the greatest ongoing battle of all time - Humanity versus the Mosquito.

IS THY STING?

www.mosquitonight.info

The performance includes a new vocal score by Mary Keith

When a performance is not in progress
please visit the Mosquito Night floorscape/soundpiece in the Studio

admission free open 4th-9th Feb

design: richard urbanski www.nomadmedia.info

welcometrust